

After experiencing nursery school with my three daughters, I realized this is a place I want to be and be a part of for other children! My daughters attended CCNS and had the best “first school” experience I could have hoped for! They still talk about the units they learned about or art projects they did at CCNS. Their experiences here gave them a solid foundation for learning and gave them the ability to think of school as a positive experience.

When my children started elementary school, I was fortunate to become part of the CCNS staff as a teacher. I worked here for two years before taking a position to help start a preschool program at my children’s elementary school. When the Administrator position became available at CCNS, I was excited about the opportunity to return here. And lo and behold, here I am!

I believe children learn best in a pressure-free, play based environment. Children should be allowed to express themselves creatively so they can learn about themselves as well as how to relate to other children. Our units at CCNS are well thought out, incorporating literacy, math and creative expression into all we do here. We encourage parents to reinforce at home what their children are learning at nursery school, especially role playing books we have read or having the children play “teacher!”

I currently live in Wauwatosa with my husband Steve and three daughters. I hold a B.A. degree from Alverno College.
